

I am writing to lend my support for XM radio to continue broadcasting local traffic and weather information. I am a subscriber and utilize the reports on a constant basis.

I do not believe that this information is considered local broadcasting as the information is offered on a nationwide basis. Would this ban on traffic and weather be extended to other areas such as news and certain types of music?

Since there is very little local ownership of broadcast radio stations, it is important that all competition remain in place so consumers have a choice in these areas.
